PROFILE

I trained as a lighting designer at Central, graduating in 2006. Since then, as well as working as a lighting designer, I have practiced as a visual artist, production manager, festival curator / director, and a building and event manager. I have worked extensively for Goat and Monkey, Shunt, Blind Summit and London Bubble, as Lighting Designer, Production Manager, and Outreach Project Leader. I was Building and Events Manager at The Blackheath Conservatoire of Music and Arts from 2014, and spent much of 2016 co-directing the successful first year of the Peckham Festival, which had over 15,000 visitors.

Along the way, I have also taught and lead projects at Trinity Laban, Royal Holloway and the National Youth Theatre, and both in the UK and in Saudi Arabia. I have been a visiting lecturer at Central since 2008, leading several student site specific and immersive theatre projects and co-running the contextual studies element of the curriculum with Dr Jessica Hartley. I joined the permanent teaching team of the Theatre Practice degree in 2016.

As a visual artist my work is driven by a desire to reimagine and alter spaces working within the urban environment to reconsider the gallery space and the viewer's relationship to it. I have recently exhibited at The Photographers' Gallery, Open Eye Gallery, Photofusion and Institut d'Estudis Fotogràfics
